Woman acquitted of manslaughter is back in jail after failing to go to transition centre

JAMES TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

A transgender woman who was recently freed from prison after being acquitted for manslaughter is back behind bars. The woman, who was convicted with the lesser sentence of trying to rob an injured man as he lay in the street, is now accused of breaching the conditions of a plan meant to help her return to society.

Joseph McNabb, 29, was supposed to immediately go and live at a North End-area transition centre as a condition of her sentence but failed to do it, according to allegations made in court records.

McNabb is also accused of failing to report to probation officials, as Justice Kenneth Hanssen ordered she must do as part of a June 10 sentencing decision.

Police said McNabb was arrested June 20 in the 200 block of Garry Street, five days after a warrant was issued. Probation officers had no idea where she went, the warrant states.

McNabb was acquitted of manslaughter in the death of Evaristo Caniuman, 60, but was found guilty of attempting to rob him after an altercation at Sargent Avenue and Young Street in April 2009.

The court found McNabb caused Caniuman's death after shoving him to the ground, but ruled the force she used was reasonable in protecting her property.

At sentencing, the Crown pushed for more jail time for McNabb, largely based on her prior convictions for violating court orders.

Hanssen declined, saying double credit for the year of time she served awaiting trial plus the probation was adequate.

The judge also cited the ridicule, abuse and assaults McNabb faced in her home community of Moose Lake, along with conditions she faced in jail because of her gender as reasons for his decision.

Stage set for Cirque's Dralion show

Vladik Miagkostoupov looks a little out of place while performing on the concrete concourse, but the Cirque du soleil performer is still in his element while juggling for a crowd of onlookers.

In full make-up and a fiery red costume, the contemporary juggler said it's just a preview of what he can do when he hits the MTS Centre stage for Cirque du soleil's Dralion.

"Our set is enormous, its going to be spectacular," says Miagkostoupov, who has been touring with Cirque for more than seven years. The stage takes about 10 hours to load and set up, requires 21 crew members and more than 60 local stage hands.

Catch the show

- Cirque du soleil's Dralion runs July 20 to 24 at the MTS Centre.

"It is a masterpiece. We'll be using half of the MTS Centre," says Julie Desmarais, spokesperson for Cirque du soleil. "It's where we bring the magic of the big top into the arena. Most of the stage takes over the floor space."

The Dralion theme is a fusion of East and West, both in its storyline and with its performances. Ancient Chinese acrobatics intertwine with Cirque's array of hand balancers, aerialists, trampolinists and live musicians.

Keeping with Eastern philosophy, the show follows the four elements, "We feature air, water, fire and earth. At the beginning of the show, they struggle, but they all come together in peace and harmony. They show the balance between human and nature," said Desmarais.

Inspections unfair: Limo drivers

Companies hope situation won't affect coming school graduations

JAMES TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

A handful of Winnipeg limousine drivers parked themselves on the grounds of the Manitoba legislature yesterday in hopes of getting answers about a round of weekend inspections that kicked some of their cars to the curb for a time.

Some company owners are calling the timing of the Saturday-evening inspections an example of "bullying" by transportation officials.

Ricky Brar of Hollywood Limousine Service said limos were pulled over on the roadside, starting in the late evening, a time when there's a push for their services in the city.

Some cars were held up for more than two hours, said Shawn Gliddon of Winnipeg Limousine. "It really screwed up the flow of customer service," he said.

116 The number of vehicles licensed by the TCB operated by Winnipeg-based limo companies, according to the provincial government.

Cars were cited for infractions including problems with window tinting, neon lighting and steering troubles. However, the Manitoba Taxicab Board (TCB) just inspected all limos in May, the owners contend.

"We just feel we've been treated unfairly," said Brar.

Police said 27 inspections were done and 25 provincial offence notices were issued.

Police had warned late last week that vehicle inspectors would be working over the weekend to tackle any safety issues with so-called "people movers" — vehicles that transport people for pay.

Committee plans to look at provincial jail system

JAMES TURNER/METRO WINNIPEG

▶ Justice Minister Andrew Swan addresses media yesterday.

Inmate count at Manitoba's correctional centres is 2,165

JAMES TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

A former police chief, a women's advocate and a criminal-justice expert will advise the province on jail expansion and new construction plans, Justice Minister Andrew Swan said yesterday.

Richard Bruce, former Brandon Police Service chief, Lucille Bruce, the executive director for the Native Women's Transition Centre, and social work professor Dennis Bracken will form a committee on how best to expand provincial jails and the services they offer, said Swan.

The committee will advise the province on how much more space should be needed in Manitoba's jails over the next decade, as well as what services and training could be provided to inmates to reduce recidivism rates.

Overcrowded

▶ Capacity. Inmate count at Winnipeg Remand Centre is 424, or 147 per cent over capacity. At Brandon, the count is 321, or 129 per cent over capacity.

The elimination of double-credit for inmates awaiting trial is one factor that's causing jail populations to rise, Swan said. Those numbers should fall over time as inmates are sentenced to federal prisons, he added.

"In the short term, that means more pressure on Manitoba's jail system," he said.

The committee will report back to the province by Dec. 31.

Swan noted some expansions of existing jails are already underway and the construction of a new women's jail is nearing completion.

Man testifies against officer

A Manitoba man has testified in a Winnipeg courtroom that he was punched in the face and kicked by an RCMP officer three years ago.

Conley Papineau of Pine Falls claims Cpl. Jeffrey Moyse stopped him to ask for ID outside a bar, then knocked him to the ground, handcuffed him and threw him in a police car.

Papineau said the car pulled off the highway on the way to an RCMP detachment and Moyse attacked him again.

Winnipeg police have arrested three people after a vicious beating that left a man in critical condition.

Police said the man, 49, was walking toward a hotel on Andrews Street when a man approached him. After a conversation, the victim was knocked to the ground and punched and kicked. Nearby, a second man and two women surrounded the victim, and proceeded to kick him numerous times.

Will and Kate's Canadian tour revealed

Prince William and his new bride, Catherine, will travel by passenger jet, bush plane, naval frigate and canoe as they tour Canada next month on their first official overseas trip since their April 29 wedding.

The royal couple will attend Canada Day celebrations in Ottawa, dragon boat races in Charlottetown, a street hockey game in Yellowknife and the Stampede Parade in Calgary on their nine-day visit.

William and Kate's official itinerary, just released, sets a busy pace for the young couple, beginning with their arrival in Ottawa June 30 and ending with their departure from Calgary July 8.

William and Canadian Prime Minister Stephen Harper plan to make speeches at the national celebration. There will be a video link to Canadian forces in Afghanistan.

The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge will also visit Quebec, where they'll tour a children's hospital in Montreal and attend a military ceremony in Quebec City.

In between, they'll spend a night aboard HMCS Montreal, a navy frigate, for a leisurely sail down the St. Lawrence River.

In Yellowknife, they'll board a float plane for the isolated native community of Blachford Lake, where they'll take a canoe ride before departing the Northwest Territories for the Calgary Stampede.

"This will be perhaps the largest, most-watched royal visit in Canada's history," Canadian Heritage Minister James Moore said.

"We do expect a record number of Canadians to come out to the public events."

RCMP launches G8-fund probe

- Investigation prompted by complaint made during election campaign
- Mounties' move comes after auditor general report into legacy fund

The RCMP is looking into allegations the Harper government misappropriated funds in order to lavish $50 million on a cabinet minister's riding prior to last year's G8 summit.

The probe comes on the heels of an auditor general's report earlier this month, which concluded the government "did not clearly or transparently" explain how the money was going to be spent when it sought Parliament's approval for a G8 legacy fund for Tony Clement's riding.

The Mounties' involvement was prompted by a complaint from former Liberal MP Marlene Jennings. She was interviewed last week by three RCMP officers.

"My sense is that they're taking it very seriously," Jennings said in an interview yesterday.

Baird shrugs at 'public relations stunt'

Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird shrugged off news of police involvement in the G8 matter.

"What this is, is a defeated Liberal candidate in the last election pulling off a public relations stunt," he told the Commons.

Former Liberal MP Marlene Jennings, who was defeated in the May 2 election, first sought an investigation in the midst of the election campaign. Her complaint was prompted by an early draft of the auditor general's report, which was leaked mid-campaign to The Canadian Press.

The early draft was much more blunt than the final version released on June 9. It concluded the government "misinformed" Parliament about the G8 legacy fund and suggested it may have acted illegally.

In an April 15 letter to the director of public prosecutions, Jennings said the government may have wilfully violated two appropriations acts and the Financial Administration Act, which stipulate that the government must disclose how it intends to spend the money when it seeks parliamentary approval for funding.

Jennings said she never heard back from the public prosecutor's office. But she did eventually receive a May 24 letter from the RCMP, advising her that "the matter is with 'A' Division Commercial Crime Section."

The day after the final auditor general's report was released, she received a call from Cpl. Ray Warner asking her to meet with him.

Six in 10 Canadians report they're in "very good" or "excellent" health, but high blood pressure and stress are concerns for an increasing number of people, a new snapshot of the nation's health indicates.

Opposition bristles over back-to-work bill

Liberal leader Bob Rae says proposed law to end postal strike is 'undemocratic' NDP to vote against bill

Prime Minister Stephen Harper says including wage provisions in back-to-work legislation for Canada Post workers is a fair approach.

But critics and the opposition say it makes the bill biased in favour of management of the Crown corporation, which locked out its employees last week after a series of rotating strikes.

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers says the rates outlined in the bill are less than what Canada Post put forward in its final offer, effectively punishing them for exercising their right to collective bargaining.

Opposition Leader Jack Layton said yesterday the legislation sends a dangerous signal to workers that if they don't accept management terms, the government will step in and impose them.

Harper did not explain why the wages were included in the bill.

"This conflict has been ongoing and it is causing harm to Canadians who are not there at the table," he said during question period.

"We are acting in the best interest of the Canadian economy and we are also acting in a way that is fair for all the employees of the Canadian government."

The two sides were to meet yesterday to continue negotiations. Upon introducing the bill Monday, Labour Minister Lisa Raitt had said part of its purpose was to kickstart stalled talks.

New Democrat MP Yves Godin said his party will vote against the bill.

Jobs on the line

The Canada Post bill is being debated, and the government hopes to see it passed before MPs leave on their summer break at the end of the week.

- The legislation requires both sides to submit their final offer on non-wage issues and an appointed arbitrator will pick the best one.
- The Tories are trying to limit debate, while the opposition parties are trying to scuttle the bill altogether.

Staples' used wares put privacy at risk: Audit

Staples Business Depot stores failed to fully wipe personal data — including passport numbers and tax records — from laptop computers and hard drives they resold, says the federal privacy commissioner.

Jennifer Stoddart said yesterday the "long-standing problem" put customers' personal information at risk.

Details of Stoddart's audit findings were included in her annual report to Parliament on the federal privacy law for private-sector enterprises.

The audit involved tests on data storage devices — such as computers, laptops, and memory cards — that had undergone a "wipe and restore" process in preparation for resale by Staples. Of the 149 data storage devices tested, more than one-third still contained customer data. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Meanwhile, shares in the company were up $2.33, or nine per cent, closing at $27.74 on the Toronto Stock Exchange yesterday evening.

So you wake up, get out of bed, drag a comb across your head.

You open your iPad and the first thing that hits you is: "Mass extinction threatens oceans."

You spill your coffee in your lap and read a little more: "Multiple ocean stresses threaten globally significant marine extinction." This from an international meeting of marine scientists who say if things keep going the way they are we will suffer the kind of mass extinction that did in the dinosaurs in millions of years ago.

The scientists tick off the "multiple oceans stresses": Global warming, acidification, lack of oxygen, pollution and overfishing.

The scientists call for "urgent and unequivocal action" or we're done for.

How do you deal with this stuff? Put down your toast and call 911? "Hello? The oceans are threatened with mass extinction? Can you come right away? The coral reefs are already starting to die! Hurry!"

"Some people just take their heads and bury them at the beach. Global warming? What global warming?"

That's the trouble with global warming. It's just too big to get your head around. Some people just take their heads and bury them at the beach. Global warming? What global warming? This is merely natural climate fluctuation.

Except all these scientists say it isn't. "In fact," they say, this is "unprecedented in the Earth's history because of the high rate and speed of change."

Scientists? What do they know? How about the real experts, the dissenting journalists and oil company executives — what are they saying? The guy at climate-resistance.org isn't worried. He dismisses the whole thing as The Fishy, Wishy-Washy report: "Just a couple of dozen eco-warriors in a single room, chatting about their fears."

Well, not to worry. The guy at the climate-resistance website says to chill out.

So here we sit, amidst the crumbs, trying to figure out if these greybeards are really just little boys crying wolf, or a bunch of chickens freaked out about the marine equivalent of a falling sky.

It's the same thing on the sky-is-falling front. I mean, greenhouse gases? Come on! Just a bunch of (bad) scientists trying to whip us into a frenzy in order to secure funding. Although I'm not quite sure how funding follows frenzy.

The government is no help. It keeps getting the Fossil Award for its well-known addiction to the tar sands and fracking — which is as dirty as it sounds.

Oh, well. A couple of nice summer days and all this oceans-dying stuff will be behind us. After all, we have to get ready for Kate and Wills' state visit.

I wonder what she'll wear. How do you think she'll look in a biohazard suit?

Worth mentioning

LE BOURGET, France. The plane making one of the biggest splashes at the Paris Air Show carries a grand total of one person and is often delayed because there's too much wind or too little sun.

Andre Borschberg pilots the Solar Impulse, a prototype aircraft powered exclusively by sunlight. While that has put him into the record books as the first pilot to fly 24 hours in an entirely solar-powered plane, it also causes aggravations that travellers anywhere could relate to.

Like the time it took him 16 hours to fly to Paris from Brussels — five hours to cover the distance and another 11 hours circling over the airport, waiting for wind conditions to settle down enough for him to land.

The plane has a slim dragonfly fuselage with a cockpit that fits just one pilot. Its enormous wing is entirely covered with 10,000 energy-capturing solar cells similar to the ones used in some homes, which generate about 40 horsepower, "the same as a small motor scooter," Borschberg said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WEIRD NEWS

He should have taken the left at Albuquerque

He's healthy, well-fed and far from home. And he's quickly become the most popular attraction on a New Zealand beach. If only he could talk.

A young penguin apparently took a wrong turn while swimming near Antarctica and endured a 3,200-kilometre journey to New Zealand, the first time in 44 years that one of the creatures has been sighted there in the wild.

Christine Wilton was walking her dog Monday when she discovered the black-and-white bird.

"It was out of this world to see it," she said. "Like someone just dropped it from the sky."

Wilton said the scene on Peka Peka Beach reminded her of the 2006 movie Happy Feet, in which a young penguin finds himself stranded far from home.

The bird "was totally in the wrong place," she said.

Estimated to be about 10 months old and 80 centimetres tall, the Emperor penguin was probably born during the last Antarctic winter and may have been searching for squid and krill when it got lost, experts said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Girl-Power: Britney Spears, Katy Perry, Nicole Kidman give Selena Gomez boost in new projects The new record — which has three songs co-penned by Gomez — is out next week

Katy Perry and Britney Spears appear on a CD together but it's not the latest Now compilation.

Rather, the pop singers have written songs on Selena Gomez & the Scene's new album, When the Sun Goes Down.

"I did have a lot of artists that I was very lucky enough to have songs written by and it's a good, uplifting album," Gomez said of her third CD. "It's really fun and very dance-y and I hope people like it."

Spears co-wrote the dance song Whiplash, while Perry co-penned That's More Like It. Singer Priscilla Renea — who co-wrote Rihanna's California King Bed and Cheryl Cole's Promise This — co-penned three songs on Gomez's album, including the lead single and Top 40 hit Who Says.

And the disc has a writing credit and guest appearance from British singer Pixie Lott.

"I think it's a powerful CD," Gomez said in a recent interview.

The 18-year-old's first two albums have reached gold status. The new record — which has three songs co-penned by Gomez herself — is out next week.

Days after her disc's release, Gomez will get another girl-power boost with the July 1 release of her new movie, Monte Carlo, which also stars Leighton Meester of Gossip Girl and was co-produced by Nicole Kidman.

Gomez says leaving Los Angeles to shoot in Paris and Budapest was "so refreshing." But the grueling promotional tour that has followed — maybe not so much.

The nationwide campaign, including a string of mall appearances, was recently interrupted.

Seems like blonde power couple Leonardo DiCaprio and Blake Lively are back on — and enjoying homemade whipped cream in California

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Leonardo DiCaprio and Blake Lively are still enjoying each other's company, despite rumors the new couple had already split up.

DiCaprio and Lively hit a private resort in the coastal town of Carmel, Calif., though they did venture out into town for some shopping and coffee.

"Blake ordered two cappuccinos," a source says.

"One with whipped cream, and one without. But when she learned that the whipped cream was homemade, she added it to the second drink."

According to the source, DiCaprio waited outside with his baseball cap pulled down low while she ordered. METRO

The settlement apparently means the studio can avoid their costly plan to digitally remove the tattoo from Ed Helms' face for the DVD release of the film.

Details of the settlement were not disclosed. METRO

Artisanal Outaouais

Just minutes from the madness of Parliament Hill are quaint boroughs full of country charm and local artisans Here you'll find seasonal cuisine and unique specialty products

GIZELLE LAU
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

A short hop and skip over the Ottawa River, Quebec's Outaouais region offers a captivating contrast to the madness of Parliament Hill just minutes away.

Here, Gatineau often takes the spotlight, drawing visitors to its Casino du Lac Leamy and Canadian Museum of Civilization. But look beyond the high-rises and you'll find the real Outaouais.

In and around Gatineau Park, a playground to many of Ottawa's VIPs, time slows as you coast through quaint boroughs like Wakefield, Chelsea and Montebello — chock-full of country charm and local artisans, dedicated to their craft, creating some unique specialty products and experiences for locals and visitors alike.

The Artists' Studio Tour is an award-winning trail that takes visitors to the workshops and studios of many specialized local artists and craftspeople.

Meet people like Russ Zietz, a professional log builder who now creates wood art and mixed media furnishings with a creative Canadian flair, and Mud Pies Pottery's Carrie Leavoy, a potter who creates Japanese-inspired products.

For those seeking artisanal edibles, visit the Boucanerie Chelsea, where owners Line Boyer and James Hargreaves have perfected the art of smoking fish and meat. Using only sustainable fish and the sawdust left over from carving out baseball bats, the smokehouse boasts delicately flavoured smoked salmon, scallops, shrimp and tuna.

Nearby, don't miss the award-winning restaurant, Les Fougères, where seasonal cuisine gets the fine dining treatment in a country-elegant dining room, recently named one of the most romantic restaurants in Canada. Homemade cured meats, terrines and Quebec cheeses are featured alongside local produce like venison, duck and bison.

If you suffer from sensitive skin, dryness or eczema, be sure to visit the Savonnerie Olivier Chelsea, where Sonya Ann Legault makes all-natural skincare products like soap, shampoo, bath oil, baby products, makeup remover and shaving cream.

Specializing in traditional craft beers using age-old brewing traditions of the Outaouais area, Brasseurs du Temps offers anywhere from eight to 12 beers for tasting. Visitors can enjoy beer-inspired dishes like smoked meat cooked in their brew or learn about the region's heyday as a centre for jazz.

To Roundit off, experience the authentic countryside hospitality of husband and wife team, Robert Milling and Lynn Berthiaume at the Wakefield Inn & Spa. With 27 well-appointed guest rooms, a spa and fine dining restaurant, the inn retains the heritage and character of the historic mill on which it was built.

STUDENT VOICE

KEVIN CALLAHAN
TALENTEGG.CA

After completing university, I immediately created a job hunting strategy and used that strategy to find an incredible opportunity in Australia for a Canadian start-up.

Here is a break-down of my job-hunt strategy.

Contacts:
Keep your contacts warm and give them a reason to want to hear from you and ultimately help you. Nobody wants to hear from a job searcher only when they need their help.

Interact with them via their preferred method of communication. Sometimes this is informally through Twitter, and sometimes it's a quick email to ask them how their vacation was. By no means should you waste anyone's time, but building and keeping rapport, even after you secure a job, is an essential part of the job hunt.

I had a spreadsheet (literally!) that showed me who all of my contacts were, where they worked, and when I last spoke to them. Don't be robotic about it, but a little organization helps keep you on track.

Focus:
Even if you are willing to do anything (I've been there), try to show some restraint and zero in on a few job areas or industries.

While it may seem counter-intuitive to limit your search, it is actually much easier to tailor your application to specific jobs when they're all in the same industry.

Motivation:
Keep yourself motivated and positive – nobody wants to hire someone who is down in the dumps. This is an often overlooked but important job hunt tactic.

Polish:
Make sure every aspect of the job hunt is done properly, from having a well written, proofread cover letter to doing mock interviews with someone who can give useful feedback.

I have been on both sides of the interview table and I can say that people who have a polished resumé, are dressed appropriately, and are comfortable in their knowledge of the position and the company are rare.

Get involved:
Companies want students who are motivated and show a history of success. You may think this means work experience, but it can also mean extracurricular activities and sports teams. So, get involved in any way you can!

My advice to employers would be to try to craft a job posting in a way that speaks of your brand. Using the typical, dated job posting formula just isn't going to work anymore.

MISTAKE RESIGNATION AND YOU MAY PAY A HEFTY PRICE

WORKPLACE LAW

DANIEL LUBLIN
DAN@CANADAEMPLOYMENTLAWYER.COM
TWITTER: @DANLUBLIN

ISTOCK

▶ Being forced to resign is not acceptable as it contradicts the very meaning of a resignation.

Pietro Saladini was a "star" employee. He rarely missed work and did whatever he could to please his employer, auto parts manufacturer Affinia Canada Corp. However, Saladini's remarkable dedication to his job also made him a target.

As a midnight shift supervisor, Saladini seldom saw his family. But, his hard work paid off when Affinia finally promoted him to a supervisor on the company's daytime shift.

Saladini figured he was set with what he referred to as the "golden shift" at work. But soon after, Affinia needed to fill a void when business picked up and, instead of hiring an extra employee to take on some of the overflow in work, the company figured that Saladini would do the job, without protest.

Saladini was summoned to a meeting with his boss and told that his shift schedule would change and, along with it, he would now be given more work without a corresponding increase in pay.

Although Saladini initially agreed, his loyalty soon morphed into anger, believing that he was being exploited by the company for having worked so hard before.

Saladini spoke with his boss stating that he did not want his shift to change but he was quickly told that he did not have a choice. He could either report to the new shift, or the company would view him as having resigned. When Saladini refused to agree, he was told to hand in his keys and escorted out of work. However, Saladini was not going to go quietly this time.

Believing that the ultimatum to take the new shift or resign was tantamount to a dismissal, he sued Affinia for wrongful dismissal, and recently he won!

Canadian courts are loath to uphold resignations proffered under circumstances of pressure or an ultimatum and instead will usually find that the employee had been fired. Here, when Saladini's boss told him that he must either take the job or resign, he was effectively terminated, according to the judge, who noted that Saladini was told to hand in his keys and leave, which is far more consistent with a dismissal than a resignation. A true resignation in a voluntary action.

Williams in tears after winning return

Health problems had kept her from playing in a Grand Slam event for a year ◐ Federer, Djokovic both advance to the next round of Wimbledon

Returning to Grand Slam tennis after a year away with health problems, Serena Williams opened her Wimbledon title defence yesterday by beating Aravane Rezai in three sets — then burst into tears on Centre Court.

After serving her 13th ace to close a 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 victory, Williams buried her face in her towel and sobbed from her courtside chair. She was still crying as she left the court, overcome with emotion after enduring a long layoff that included two foot operations and treatment for blood clots in her lungs.

"It's just been a long, arduous road. To stand up still is pretty awesome."
SERENA WILLIAMS

"I usually don't cry ... but it's just been so hard," the four-time Wimbledon champion said. "I never dreamt I would be here right now. And then to win. I just wanted to win at least one match here."

Following Williams on Centre Court was Roger Federer, who began his chase for a record-equalling seventh Wimbledon championship by beating Mikhail Kukushkin of Kazakhstan 7-6 (2), 6-4, 6-2 in the wind.

Second-seeded Novak Djokovic, playing for the first time since his 43-match winning streak was stopped by Federer at the French Open, sailed into the second round with a 6-4, 6-1, 6-1 victory over Jeremy Chardy of France. Djokovic dropped only 11 points on serve.

Canadians Rebecca Marino and Stephanie Dubois advanced to the second round after posting their first career wins at the All England club.

But Aleksandra Wozniak of Blainville, Que., struggling with her comeback from an elbow injury, lost her first-round match to Czech Barbora Zahlavova Strycova 7-6 (7), 6-4. And Frank Dancevic of Niagara Falls, Ont., squandered two match points in a 3-6, 3-6, 6-4, 7-6 (6), 6-2 loss to Brazilian Ricardo Mello.

Vancouver's Marino defeated Patricia Mayr-Achleitner of Austria 6-3, 7-6 (5).

Thrashers sale gets unanimous approval

The NHL board of governors has unanimously approved the sale of the Atlanta Thrashers, paving the way for the club to move to Winnipeg for next season.

True North Sports and Entertainment bought the team last month and announced it was bringing the Thrashers to Winnipeg, which lost the Jets to Phoenix after the 1995-96 season. Yesterday's vote by the board was the final hurdle in the process to relocate the team.

The votes on the sale and the relocation were unanimous among the league's owners.

"We are very honoured by the NHL board of governors' unanimous decision today," Mark Chipman, True North's chairman of the board, said in a statement.

"We know that the fans of this province have an appetite for NHL hockey that is rivalled by few in the league and intend to work very hard to make Manitobans proud of our franchise for years to come."

There was a different emotion in Atlanta.

"It's a sad day for hockey fans in Atlanta, but the franchise is going to a good place and run by good people," Thrashers president Don Waddell said. "I wish them well, because a lot of good people are going to go with them."

Battery in the back

The eAssist gets its energy supply from a 115-volt lithium-ion battery that's positioned behind the rear seat.

The 29-kilogram battery's compact size means that the LaCrosse's 60:40 split rear seat will still fold flat for additional storage as before (unlike some other hybrid models), but with only about a 15 per cent reduction in trunk space.

Cooling things down

Lithium-ion batteries tend to generate a lot of heat, as anyone who has ever operated a laptop computer on their lap can readily attest.

To help cool things down, an electric fan is used that draws air from a vent located on the parcel shelf behind the rear seat. According to Buick, the fan motor will not be noisy enough to disturb any passengers.

Fuel economy

Buick promises that the driving experience with the new hardware won't differ from piloting a regular gas-engine model.

But what will be different is the fuel economy rating that the LaCrosse is expected to generate: 8.01/100 km in the city and 5.4 on the highway.

Those numbers represent a significant 26 per cent improvement in city fuel economy and 16 per cent on the highway over the 2011 LaCrosse's 10.8/6.5 city/highway rating.

It's gas-sipper, sure, but it isn't a hybrid

Seekers of fuel-efficient mid- and full-size luxury sedans have had little choice but to shell out a hefty premium demanded by Lexus, BMW and Mercedes-Benz for a luxury gas-electric hybrid model.

That's about to change later this year when General Motors' Buick division rolls out its 2012 LaCrosse equipped with the eAssist system. As the name implies, eAssist is an electrified helper motor that doesn't independently power the car, but kicks in when the LaCrosse is accelerating or heading up hill.

But that's only part of the story, so much so that GM avoids using the term "hybrid."

The technology begins with a 15-horsepower liquid-cooled electric motor-generator that replaces the LaCrosse's traditional alternator. Beyond providing power enrichment for the 182-horsepower 2.4-litre four-cylinder gas engine when needed, the generator also automatically shuts it down anytime the car comes to a stop.

It also cuts off the engine's fuel supply whenever the car is decelerating, while maintaining power to the braking, steering and other electronic controls. Pretty slick stuff.

LaCrosse eAssist

Quick facts about the Buick LaCrosse eAssist:

- Engine (hp): 2.4-litre DOHC I4 (182) combined with 15-horsepower electric motor.
- Transmission and mileage: Six-speed automatic; L/100 km (city/hwy) 8.0/5.4.

Bank on family-ready versatility

Compass with manual gearbox will be the safest bet

JUSTIN PRITCHARD/FOR METRO

▶ 2010 Jeep Compass North Edition

Though the Jeep Compass wasn't a diehard mud-slinger like its siblings, it intended to attract a new buyer to the brand with its fuel efficiency, city-friendly sizing and promise of affordable adventure.

All models got standard four-cylinder power and front wheel drive. The larger, 2.4-litre, 172 horsepower engine is typically preferred. Compass could be fitted with an "intelligent" AWD system that featured a driver-lockable centre differential for enhanced traction. Transmission choices were a manual five-speed box or a Continually Variable Transmission (CVT).

Look for features like heated seats, Bluetooth, premium audio, a sunroof and multimedia connectivity. A household power outlet was also available, and split-folding seats enhanced cargo capacity when required. Sizing was in the same ballpark as a Toyota Matrix, Dodge Caliber or Mazda 3.

End of the day, compact driving dynamics, fuel efficiency and versatility moved the Compass from dealer lots more than off-road prowess, though Compass was capable of light to moderate off-road work as needed.

What owners like

Manoeuvrability, flexibility, all-season traction with 4x4 models and styling, all seem to be rated positively by the majority of Compass owners. Car-like ride quality, the up-level stereo and fuel mileage were also praised.

What owners dislike

Owner-stated complaints tend to centre around cheap interior plastics, sluggish performance from models with the CVT transmission, road noise, blind spots and limited ground clearance and off-road abilities.

Common issues

When test-driving a used Compass, "listen" to the vehicle's front end for signs of clunking, popping or grinding sounds while steering or travelling over bumps. Unwelcome noises could indicate a worn-out suspension component, and numerous owners have reported premature wear of these parts. Driveability issues with the CVT transmission, including reduced or sluggish acceleration, could be a computer-related problem fixed by rebooting or re-flashing the vehicle's computer brain. Grinding sounds from the CVT transmission, or a bucking or "jerking" sensation when decelerating, could be signs of trouble. Opt for a manual-equipped model where possible.

Finally, check the ceiling liner around the map lights, as well as carpeting in the front footwells for signs of moisture — which could indicate a leaky sunroof or drain tubes.

The verdict

Low resale values, good mileage and family-ready versatility will be the primary draws to the Jeep Compass in the used market. Shoppers seeking out a model with a manual transmission and a clean bill of health from a Chrysler-trained mechanic should enjoy fairly solid reliability and affordable all-season driving confidence.

CDI College Students Support SNOW Night

Students from the Addictions and Community Services Worker Program at CDI College of Business Technology Health Care are showing their support for the community through their collection of care packages for distribution at SNOW Night.

SNOW Night is the evening where female and transgendered sex trade workers are treated to a night which provides meals, a safe place to sleep and activities. The event is sponsored by the Salvation Army and Sage House.

The purpose of the evening's event is to provide a 14 hours period where participants are able to relax, enjoy a night off the street and join in games and receive a gift bag and much needed pampering. Estheticians and hairstylists donate time to help with haircuts, manicures and pedicures.

SNOW Night or Safe Night Off Winnipeg Streets, will be having its fourth successive year this February and CDI College students are there making a contribution to the success of the event.

Led by Addictions and Community Services Worker students Cassie Gensorek and Stephanie Bartelette, students have been collecting boxes of gift material to share with the participants of SNOW Night.

"We printed out a list of the most needed items for the women and are doing a competition between classes to accumulate the most items to donate," Gensorek explained, stating "It is a good cause – the women don't have a chance to wear warm clothes."

Bartelette explained that it is a safe night to provide a time for these women to be safe. "We want them to have a place to stay for the night, to be warm and to be safe."

The purpose of the drive is to raise awareness in the college and the community by setting up this SNOW Challenge. Other colleges in downtown were invited but had declined to participate.

Gensorek said they were motivated to lead the challenge by "the lack of resources in general for addictions and the sex trade workers. We wanted to help support this annual resource and give it all the support we can."

With the CDI College Addictions and Community Services Diploma Program having a focus on training professionals who will be assisting members of these disadvantaged communities, Bartelette felt it was highly relevant to their career.

"We are all going to school for this. By helping and giving to others who don't have to these advantages, we are creating awareness," Bartelette added.

Tahl East, Winnipeg Campus Director, CDI College said that she was proud of the hard work that Bartelette, Gensorek and their team were doing to assist these women and transgendered sex trade workers.

"We allow our students to practice empathy and participate in the community. This is one of the strengths of our college," East said.

If anyone wishes to help by donating an item, Gensorek and Bartelette ask that you drop it off to CDI College at 280 Main Street (Main Street and Graham Avenue). "You can also drop it off at Mount Carmel Clinic, Sage House or the Salvation Army", Gensorek said.
